What We Offer

We present the same benefits plans as larger benefits sales and administration agencies do, but we always focus on you. If you're a new business owner, then making these types of decisions is a whole new world with a completely different language. Or, you may be a seasoned business owner who isn't getting the options or the level of service you deserve. We can change that.

Employee Benefits Are All We Do

We analyze, implement and administer your benefits plan with a personal touch

Employee benefits are complex, costly and confusing. We want to solve that challenge for small businesses like yours. Since our founding in 1993, our clients have ranged from sole proprietors to start-ups, to established companies and those looking to grow. Because we represent most of the insurance carriers out there, we are able to give you unbiased recommendations for several plans to meet your goals — like cost control, tax savings or ease of administration. Then we present your options in language that anyone can understand so that you feel confident in your choices. We let you take employee benefits off of your mind and get you back to doing what you do best.

A Trusted Long-Term Partner

Unlike some agencies, we connect you with a dedicated benefits consultant to stay with you through the implementation and administration of your plan. Along the way, we provide a full range of services that make your experience with Corporate Coverage exceptional. Services like:

- Client consultation
- Carrier contract analysis
- Client and employee communications
- Compliance review
- Claims and customer service management

CareFirst Rebates - Do you know what to do with it?

The Affordable Care Act (ACA) established medical loss ratio (MLR) rules to help control health care coverage costs and ensure that enrollees receive value for their premium dollars. The MLR rules require health insurance issuers to spend 80-85 percent of premium dollars on medical care and health care quality improvement, rather than administrative costs.

Issuers that do not meet these requirements must provide rebates to consumers. Rebates must be provided by September 30 following the end of the MLR reporting year. For the 2016 reporting year, issuers are required to pay rebates by Sept. 30, 2017.

Employers that expect to receive rebates should review the MLR rebate rules and decide how they will administer the rebates. For assistance with rebates, please contact your Corporate Coverage representative.

Links and Resources

On Dec. 1, 2010, the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) issued interim final regulations implementing the ACA's MLR requirements.

The Department of Labor (DOL) issued Technical Release 2011-4 (TR 2011-4) to explain how ERISA's fiduciary duty and plan asset rules apply to MLR rebates.

MLR Rebates

An issuer that does not meet its MLR standard must provide a rebate to the policyholder, which is typically the employer that sponsors the plan in the group health plan context. For current enrollees, issuers may provide rebates in the form of:

- A lump-sum payment; or
- A premium credit (that is, a reduction in the amount of premium owed).

Also, to avoid having to pay a rebate, an issuer may institute a "premium holiday" during an MLR reporting year if it finds that its MLR is lower than the required percentage. According to HHS, an issuer may use a premium holiday only if it is permissible under state law. Also, any issuers using premium holidays must meet certain other requirements, such as providing the holiday in a nondiscriminatory manner and refunding premium overpayments.

How an employer should handle any MLR rebate it receives from an issuer depends on the type of group health plan (an ERISA plan, a non-federal governmental group health plan or a non-ERISA, non-governmental plan) and whether the rebate is considered a plan asset.
